The diagram consists of four rows of rectangles. The first two rows each contain 10 rectangles arranged in a single horizontal line. The last two rows each contain 9 rectangles arranged in a single horizontal line. The first two groups of rectangles (the first two rows) are highlighted with an orange background, while the last two groups (the last two rows) are highlighted with a blue background. This visual representation likely corresponds to a mathematical concept such as the distributive property of multiplication or a specific counting technique.
