

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable. "Routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers is not how the world's largest democracy should behave."

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.

'India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.'

India's security forces have been accused of routinely shooting poor, unarmed villagers in the name of counter-terrorism. This is a gross violation of human rights and the rule of law. The government must take immediate steps to investigate these allegations and hold those responsible accountable.

