

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON PEACE AND SECURITY

"The international community has a responsibility to ensure that the rights of all people are protected, and that the security of all people is maintained." This is the theme of the International Conference on Peace and Security, which will be held in Geneva, Switzerland, from 10 to 12 September 2001.

The Conference will be organized by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) in cooperation with the United Nations, the European Union, and the African Union. The Conference will provide a unique opportunity for representatives of all major world powers, as well as representatives of civil society, to discuss the challenges facing the world in the area of peace and security, and to explore ways in which these challenges can be addressed. The Conference will also provide a platform for the exchange of views and experiences, and for the development of a common understanding of the issues at hand.

The Conference will be held in Geneva, Switzerland, from 10 to 12 September 2001. The Conference will be open to all interested parties, and will be held in a spirit of openness and transparency. The Conference will be a landmark event in the history of international relations, and will provide a unique opportunity for the world to come together to discuss the challenges facing the world in the area of peace and security.
