

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON THE HISTORY OF THE MIDDLE EAST

The International Conference on the History of the Middle East is a unique opportunity for scholars from around the world to discuss the latest research on the region's past. The conference will focus on the period from the late Ottoman Empire to the present day, with particular attention to the role of the British and the United States in the region's development. The conference will be held in London, UK, from 15-19 September 2024. The conference is organized by the British Association for Middle Eastern Studies (BAMES) and the Middle East Studies Association (MESA).

The conference will feature a series of plenary sessions, keynote speeches, and panel discussions. The plenary sessions will be held in the evening, and will provide an opportunity for speakers to present their research to a large audience. The keynote speeches will be given by leading experts in the field, and will provide an overview of the current state of research on the history of the Middle East. The panel discussions will be held in the morning and afternoon, and will provide an opportunity for speakers to discuss their research in more detail.

The conference will also include a series of workshops and seminars, which will provide an opportunity for participants to engage in more in-depth discussions on specific topics. The workshops and seminars will be held in the morning and afternoon, and will be led by leading experts in the field. The conference is open to all scholars, and is free of charge for participants.

The conference will be held in a central location in London, and will provide an opportunity for participants to visit other parts of the city. The conference is a unique opportunity for scholars to discuss their research and to meet other experts in the field. The conference is a must-attend event for anyone interested in the history of the Middle East.

For more information, please visit the conference website at www.bames.org.uk/mee2024. The conference is a unique opportunity for scholars to discuss their research and to meet other experts in the field. The conference is a must-attend event for anyone interested in the history of the Middle East.