

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON THE LAW OF THE SEA

The International Conference on the Law of the Sea was held in Geneva, Switzerland, from 1958 to 1960. It was the first of a series of conferences convened by the International Law Commission to deal with the law of the sea.

The conference was convened by the International Law Commission, which was established by the United Nations in 1948. The Commission's mandate was to identify and codify the principles and rules of international law that would govern the relations between States in the field of international law.
