

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT 2002

The International Conference on Sustainable Development was held in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 2002. The conference was the first of its kind to be held in a developing country. It was organized by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). The conference was a landmark event in the history of sustainable development. It brought together leaders from all over the world to discuss the challenges of sustainable development and to develop a plan of action for the future. The conference was a success and it paved the way for the Johannesburg Summit in 2002.
